HONGKONG, OCTOBER 27TH, 1886.

THE latest telegraphic message received from Reuter is calculated to deepen the anxiety with which politicians must now regard the situation in Europe. The rapprochement reported to have taken place between Russia and Turkey must inevitably have a sinister meaning for England unless something like an understanding has really been arrived at between England and Russia, which seems hardly probable. That the policy of Lord SALISBURY has undergone some modification since the signature of the Treaty of Berlin is extremely likely, for circumstances have changed since then, and the future of the Balkan peninsula is no longer so vital a matter as to call for the pouring to th of English blood and treasure like water to stay the advance of the Muscovite vanguard towards Constantinople. The Vienna Political Correspondence reports a conversation which its London correspondent has had with a member of the English Cabinet on the Eastern question. The Minister is said to have expressed himself somewhat as follows:—

An important change has taken place in the views of leading English statesmen regarding England's interests in the East. The tradition adhered to, even by Lord Beaconsfield, of remaining allied with Turkey at all hazards, is no longer advocated, even by Conservative occupants of the Foreign Office. Since the occupation by English troops of Cyprus, and still more of Egypt, Constantinople has lost much of its importance to England. The Russian fleet in the Black Sea would, in the event of war, pass through the Dardanelles, with or without the Sultan's consent, and advance into the Mediterranean. The rule of the Sultan at Constantinople, therefore, no longer affords a guarantee against a Russian attack on the English possessions in the Mediterranean. Russia already possesses a road to India, viâ Merv, and the possession of Constantinople could afford her no assistance in this direction.

England, on the other hand in the event of Russia's impeding the conveyance of English troops through the Suez Canal, has at her disposal another way to India, one which leads exclusively through British dominions—the new Canadian railway. One no longer thinks of defending India at Constantinople, but in Afghanistan, and on the Anglo-Afghan frontier. England has as much interest as the other Powers in preventing Russia from advancing towards Constantinople, but this is no longer held to be a vital interest that would have to be protected even by force of arms. The action or rather inaction of the British Government with regard to the revolution in Bulgaria tends to give colour to the above statement. But while England is not prepared to squander lives or money for an idea—or in doing the work of the Continental States specially interested—her sympathies go with the young nationalities of the Peninsula, and she would prefer to see them enjoying a free and independent existence, without being subjected to the tutelage of any Power and least of all a despotism like that of Russia. The Russian Government and Press know and resent this, and hence there can be little sympathy between the two nations. They may still avoid an open quarrel, but Russia would probably be only too glad to do anything that would serve to embarrass and annoy England. It would therefore not surprise us to hear that the Russian Government are urging France on to demand the evacuation of Egypt, and we shall not be astonished to learn shortly that Russia and Turkey have joined in the demand. So long as the French Press merely demand it—menace they ever so wildly—the English Government will remain completely unmoved, but if other Powers join they might have to consider the position and either annex the country and defy the Powers or agree to a joint or perhaps a Turkish occupation of the land of the Pharaohs. Why the French should trouble themselves so much about the English occupation of Egypt it is difficult to understand except by supposing that they believe the British Government intend eventually to annex it. This course has always been shunned by England, in spite of the extent of her interests in Egypt, as it would so largely increase her responsibilities. M. DE LAVALEYE, the eminent Belgian politician, some years ago, in a very able article, strongly advocated the annexation of Egypt by England, and urged that it was a necessary step and one which would lead to the gradual opening up to civilisation of the Dark Continent. But the British Government refused to listen to the voice of the charmer then, and they are less likely to heed the suggestion now that a new route to the East has been opened up through Canada. But their interest in the Suez Canal is too large to be neglected, too important to be left to the mercy of an incapable Government at Cairo, and until the KHEDIVE has thoroughly re-established his authority on a firm basis, it will continue to be necessary to retain a force in Egypt. The retention of troops there is a strain on the military resources of England that she would be glad to be freed from, and she will not be reluctant to withdraw them when it is safe to do so. Meantime the French papers may fret and fume, but all their threats will not lead to the return of a single British regiment. France was content to allow the British Government to incur all the cost and trouble of suppressing ARABI's rebellion, yet though no attempt has since been made by the English Government to enter into the fruits of victory, she now calls upon them to remove the safeguards against a renewal of anarchy.

The French gunboat Vipère, Captain de Marolles, from Shanghai 22nd inst., arrived here yesterday.

The total numbers of visitors to the City Hall museum during the week ending 24th October were:—Europeans, 190; Chinese, 2,645.

The Agent informs us that the Messageries Maritimes steamer Saghalien, with the next outward French mail, will leave Saigon at noon today for this port.

We are informed by the Agents (Messrs. Butterfield & Swire) that the Ocean Steamship Company's steamer Ajax, from Liverpool, left Singapore for this port on Monday afternoon.

The Echo de Shanghai announces that Signor Bergamaschi, who came from Europe in the Oxus with an Opera Company for Manila, intends to visit Shanghai with his troupe in February next.

The Foochow Echo says that the impending visit of the Hongkong Cricket Eleven has put new life into the local cricketers and hard practice is now the rule instead of, as it used to be, the exception.

The Tientsin Shih-pao of the 16th inst. says that the U.S. Consul at Chefoo has addressed a communication to the Taotai at that port to the effect that the second engineer on board one of the U.S. men-of-war stationed there had left the ship on leave and not returned. A reward of $100 is offered to any person who will give information as to his whereabouts.

The sugar industry in Formosa is being threatened on a new side. At present Japan consumes annually 83,000,000 lbs., costing 4½ million yen, most of which comes from Formosa, but the Nichi Nichi Shimbun asserts that the whole requirements of Japan could be easily supplied by the Loochoo islands. A large capital would be required to start the production, but this could be found; the islanders would make excellent labourers, and teachers could be provided for them in returned Japanese emigrants from Hawaii. 25,000 acres would grow enough sugar to supply all Japan, and there are 150,000 available acres in the islands.

The Foochow Echo expresses a fear that the building of the projected Native Hospital on the site selected for it will be an impossibility, as it bears the natives will strongly oppose its erection on that spot, and proceeds to remark:—"It is high time now that the much vexed and absurd question of Fêngshui should be represented to the Peking authorities by our Consuls, through the Ministers; under present circumstances it would be a reasonable complaint. We would like to be informed if Fêngshui is generally believed in by the natives. If such is the case, why did they not provide for it before they had sold the ground and received the money? In our opinion Fêngshui is nothing but a scapegoat for rogues and vagabonds, and these are the literati, who make their living on Fêngshui troubles."

Foochow certainly can take the palm for fires. Not only are they of constant occurrence, but they are nearly always on a grand scale. Another took place on Sunday night, the 17th October. It broke out about one o'clock in a house on the other side of the Long Bridge, and destroyed, the Echo hears, 170 shops and private houses. No lives were lost. The Echo adds:—"The Chinese attribute the cause of the numerous recent fires to the bad Fêngshui of the newly-built Joss house adjoining the Club. The main objection is its height, and the raising of the main beam has been the cause of the destruction of the Native Hospital and all the other fires. We sincerely hope—if so bad is their joss—that our celestial neighbours will pull down that joss house without delay, and sell the ground, at any price, to the Club Committee, and thus avoid further destruction of property. The losses by fire are now estimated at over five million taels!"

Indian silk culture (says the Indian Daily News) would seem to be "looking up." The Commissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division writes in his Administration Report for 1885-86:—In Manbhoom the export of tussar cocoons received a remarkable impetus during the year, owing, it is said, to the operations of a French firm, who have been buying on a large scale for export to Europe. In Singbhoom the agents of two large firms are at present engaged in collecting cocoons. It is said that these firms propose to undertake reeling at Chyebassa. I was much struck with the great quantities of tussar cocoons which I saw brought for sale to the Chyebassa market. About 131,000 kahans of cocoons, valued at Rs. 8,95,850, are reported to have been exported from Singbhoom, and about 20,000 kahans from Manbhoom. The value of cocoons exported from Hazaribagh is estimated at Rs. 35,000. In Palamow an agent of a well-known firm at Rajshahye is reported to have appeared "on the scene, and is said to be trying to establish a business."

The British steel twin-screw despatch vessel Alacrity arrived here yesterday morning from Portsmouth. She comes to take the place of the paddle despatch vessel Vigilant, as Admiral Hamilton's despatch boat. She is a vessel of 1,300 tons and 3,180 horse-power, and has a maximum speed of nearly 17 knots. She is armed with four 5-inch breech-loading guns, mounted on Vavasseur's central pivoted carriages; four Hotchkiss quick-firing 6 br. guns, mounted on non-recoil pivots; and two Nordenfelt 0.45-inch machine guns. She is fitted out as an armed despatch vessel. She left Portsmouth on the 29th August. Nothing of any importance occurred during the passage, the weather having been fine throughout. The heat, however, in the Red Sea was very great, exceptionally so for the time of year. The Duke of Connaught arrived while the Alacrity was at Malta in the Surprise, a sister-ship to the Alacrity, and he also arrived at Port Said on the same day as the Alacrity did. She arrived at Colombo on the 5th instant, and after a stay of a few days left for Hongkong viâ Singapore. The following is a list of her officers:—Commander—Robert B. Maconochie; Lieutenants—Alexander Meldrum, John L. Lory; Chief Engineer—Joseph A. Smith; Surgeon—James McC. Martin; Assistant Paymaster in Charge—Reginald B. Rigbye; Engineer—John G. Stevens; Gunner—James S. Clarke. She was commissioned at Portsmouth on the 22nd June last.

Says the N. C. Daily News:—The kidnapping of a man in Hongkong harbour by Chinese officials will require to be vigorously dealt with by the Colonial Government; it is a case which demands firm action. The Chinese authorities appear to have been very active lately in the neighbourhood of Hongkong, for our Canton correspondent writes to us in a letter just to hand:—"The General commanding the Ta-peng Hsieh garrison at Kowloon, opposite Hongkong, has arrested and sent to the Viceroy a Chief of the San-ho Heu, Triad Society, named Li, who is supposed to be a very powerful Head Centre in the neighbourhood of Hongkong and Kowloon, or the Chin-lung Shang, mountainous districts on the mainland. The Government officials expect to be able to extort a good deal of useful information out of the Chief Li, so he is being carefully watched and nursed to make him become gradually disposed to unburden his mind of its secrets. The five members of the Triad Society sent down from Chao-ching Fu proved more interesting than was at first supposed. One was a Chief, and was caught in a bath."—Enquiry into the circumstances of the capture of Li might possibly show that Fung is not the only man who has been carried off from British territory.

The French Press is again menacingly demanding the British evacuation of Egypt.

PIRACY OFF CAPE COLLINSON.

SIX MEN MURDERED.

A piratical attack, resulting in the death of six men, took place off Cape Collinson on Monday morning. The Wing Fat trading junk, of 250 piculs capacity and carrying a crew of eight men, left Hongkong on Saturday night bound for Chung Chow-fu with a cargo of 130 piculs of mangrove bark. About three o'clock on Monday morning, when off Cape Collinson, the night being very dark, she was attacked by a piratical boat which, after firing several shots, came alongside and threw a number of stinkpots on board. Before the pirates came alongside seven of the crew had run down into the hold, and the eighth went into the forepeak. The pirates boarded and searched the boat, but finding no cargo but the bark on board they left again without taking any property at all. After the pirates had gone the man who had taken refuge in the forepeak came down and looked into the hold. There he found five of his comrades dead, killed by the stinkpots which had fallen amongst them, and the other two very severely burnt. The junk drifted into Yaumati harbour during the course of the day. The Chinchew people there took charge of the pirated junk, brought her to Hongkong, and communicated with Mr. Ng Mun Kwan, who sent his son with the agent of the junk up to the Police Station, the report being received at the Central Station late on Monday night. The wounded men were sent to hospital, where one of them died yesterday. The other is still alive, but his recovery is doubtful. An inquest was opened on the six bodies at the Mortuary yesterday afternoon.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon at the Mortuary by the Coroner and a jury composed of Messrs. W. Ramsay, Alex. Collaço, and J. A. da Luz, on the bodies of the five men who were found dead on board the junk by the Police and one of the two wounded men who were conveyed to the Civil Hospital and who had died since.

Dr. Marques gave evidence to the effect that all the bodies bore signs of having been severely burned and some of them were in an advanced state of decomposition. The sixth deceased, he said, was admitted to the Hospital about 12.30 a.m. and died about 4.30 a.m. yesterday. This man also was suffering from burns in the left arm and forearm and left cheek. He sank rapidly; he was only half conscious, and died from injuries received.

Chun Ahui said—I am seaman on board the Win Fat trading junk. I identify the six deceased, whose names are—Tsun Kun San, 25 years of age; Tsun Soi Ho, 45 years; Ho Yok, 2 years; Tsun Tsun Woo Fun, 25 years; Cheung Kno Mo, about 28 years; Tsoang Ap Mo, 27 years. On the 24th instant, about 9 p.m., we sailed from this port and went through the Ly-ee-moon pass. We were eight on board—the six deceased, myself, and the man in hospital. When we were off the lighthouse outside Ly-ee-moon, after three hours' sailing suddenly shots were fired against us by a vessel; it was dark and we could not make out the nature of the craft. I saw the other seven men run into the hold. I was hiding in the forepeak; from an opening there I saw three stinkpots thrown into our junk by the enemy's boat which by this time was alongside our junk. After a short time everything was quite. I then went down the hold and found five of our men were dead and two wounded; only myself was unhurt. As the men were all useless I allowed the junk to drift to Yaumati where we arrived yesterday about five p.m. I then went round to look for my countrymen about there to inform them of the occurrence. Some of them advised me to take the junk over to this side and report the matter to the Police, which I did at the Central Station. The deceased men were afterwards removed from the junk by the Police as well as the two wounded men. Our cargo consisted of mangrove bark. I was much frightened and did not dare come out of my hiding place. I heard men walking about the deck but did not see them; they were shouting in Punti "Kill!" The pirates did not take anything away as our cargo was of little value. I do not know whether they belonged to any Revenue cruiser.

By Mr. Mathieson—We had no muskets or pikes on board.

Mr. Mathieson (producing a port clearance)—Does this paper belong to your junk?

Witness—Yes.

It is written here that you had 10 muskets and 7 pikes on board?—There were no muskets or spears. I do not know why they are so written down.

Inspector Mathieson asked witness to point out on a map the spot where the occurrence took place, and he pointed out Sai-wan Bay.

Inspector Mathieson—Are you sure that it took place yesterday morning?

Witness—On the night of the 24th.

When did you start from Hongkong?—We sailed on the 24th and it took place about daylight following.

The Sergeant who boarded the junk gave evidence to finding the bodies of the deceased in the after hold and the two wounded men, the former he removed to the Mortuary and the latter to the Civil Hospital.

The Coroner having charged the jury, a verdict of murder against some person or persons unknown was returned.

A correspondent at Shwebo, in Upper Burmah, writes to a Bombay paper:—"The friendlies are one of the institutions of Shwebo, and a mother let the eye of man never looked upon outside the pantomime. Directly an expedition starts, in they pour these Burman brigands as like as two peas to the dacoit fraternity, treading on our toes, rubbing our shoulders, devouring their rice and fish au putrilage under our noses with all the camaraderie of old pals. I dare say we had 500 with us during our march, all armed with something or other from the national dah (a cross between a cutlass and a butcher's cleaver) to a bit of bamboo surmounted by a bayonet that must have been aged when George the Third was King. Many of them are mounted on indescribable tats. They look upon us, I believe, as excellent fellows in one way, and would not be unwilling when pressed to let us have a share in the glory of the day. For pursuing a broken enemy, they are said to have done some excellent slaying, and for what might be described as the instinct of loot, why leave it to them. They mean so well and they have been for intelligence purposes and for generally leading a hand so useful, and in fact we have got so used to them that there would be, let us say, an aching void and sense of incompleteness if any expedition were to start without them. Yes, Myook-let-be and his dusky warriors are an indispensable institution at Shwebo."

FATAL AFFRAY IN THE HARBOUR.

On Monday afternoon a fatal affray occurred on board one of Messrs. Blackhead & Co.'s lighters which was lying alongside the British steamer Hampshire. It appears that while the boatswain of the steamer, named Charles M. Davis, was on watch he observed a Chinese, named Chung Shui Fuk, running away with a bundle of firewood which Davis thought was the property of the ship, and in the performance of his duty he pursued the coolie, who took refuge in the lighter. Davis seized his man there and the latter resisted him; a struggle ensued, in the course of which the Chinaman either lost his balance or was thrown into the hold of the craft. The unfortunate man was stunned by the fall and rendered insensible; he was immediately carried on board the steamer, and restoratives were at once applied, which, however, did not prove of much avail, as the man died a few hours afterwards. A charge was laid by the friends of the deceased, in consequence of which Davis was arrested and brought up at the Magistracy yesterday morning on a charge of homicide, but the case was only formally called and remanded pending the Coroner's inquest on the body of the deceased.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquest was formally opened at the Mortuary yesterday afternoon by the Coroner and a jury composed of Messrs. R. Langton, Geo. Lemon, and E. A. Obadaya, on the body of Chung Shui Fuk, who met his death as described above. The jurors having viewed the body the inquiry was adjourned to 2.30 p.m. to-day at the Magistracy.

VICTORIA LAUNDRY COMPANY, LIMITED.

An extraordinary meeting of the shareholders of the Victoria Laundry Company was held at the Hongkong Hotel yesterday "for the purpose of deciding the future of the Company." There were present—Captain Anderson (Chairman), Messrs. R. Fraser-Smith (Director), E. Georg, A. O'D. Gourdin, C. Grant, M. Falconar, D. R. Crawford, W. Legge, A. Johnston, M. B. Polishwalla, A. E. Vaucher, D. McCulloch, E. E. Dear, and R. C. Hurley (Secretary).

The SECRETARY read the notice convening the meeting.

The CHAIRMAN said—Since our last meeting on 6th July events have developed so rapidly, and in such an extraordinary manner, that we are left no alternative but to ask your advice before proceeding further with the business. It will be remembered that the meeting held on 6th July was convened to decide in what way the loss resulting from breach of contract on the part of the Hongkong Steam Laundry Co., Ld., should be dealt with. It was ultimately agreed that the matter be settled by friendly arbitration amongst ourselves. With such an understanding, both in the interest of equity and economy, your Directors were surprised to receive on 24th July, without any notice or attempt on the part of the Hongkong Steam Laundry Co. to offset the agreement to friendly arbitration, a writ for $1,200 rent due from the 1st January to 1st July and for $2,047.50 amount of stores taken over. In response to this an affidavit was filed in the Supreme Court by Mr. R. C. Hurley, stating the circumstances of the case, and claiming as a set-off the sum of $4,000, for loss of business and profit actually sustained. This affidavit was accepted and permission granted to defend by the Chief Justice in Chambers. At this stage of the proceedings, to save time and expense, your Directors again pressed for arbitration. Whereupon Mr. John Macgregor was appointed by the Hongkong Steam Laundry Co., Ld., Mr. W. H. F. Darby acting on your behalf, finally resulting in the sum of $300 being considered and given as fair compensation for the loss of a whole season's business. I cannot read the schedule or letter I had intended to read, as the matter is still under trial. The Hongkong Steam Laundry Co., Ld., have already applied to have the award made an order of Court, which proceeding has also been set aside for the present. As there is every possibility of having the arbitration made void and the original suit being heard, your Directors wish to learn your views on the subject, and will be glad to hear any suggestions.

Mr. LEGGE—I at once rise to reply to your last statement, that there is every reason to believe the application to have the award made an order of the court will be set aside. You were summoned on Saturday week and you will have to appear not later than Thursday next. There is no further prospect of re-opening the arbitration.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We said nothing about that.

Mr. LEGGE—You said there was every prospect of the award being set aside.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—The position stands thus. After some little trouble we got the questions in dispute submitted to arbitration to the two gentlemen whose names have been mentioned. They sent in an award last week, but it was an award we could not accept because it was not in conformity with the agreement under which the arbitration was carried out. The two gentlemen who were appointed arbitrators altogether misconstrued the terms of the trust reposed in them.

Mr. LEGGE—That is for the Chief Justice to determine.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—You misunderstand me.

Mr. LEGGE—I quite understand. It is for the Judge to decide.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Wait a moment. I am not going to prejudge the case, only to give an explanation. The arbitrators were asked four questions, not one of which they answered, and we cannot accept the award. We took counsel's advice and the counsel says we are quite right. On that Captain Anderson is quite justified in saying there is every prospect of the arbitration being made void.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—How many shareholders in this, the Victoria Laundry Company, are shareholders in the Hongkong Laundry Company?

The CHAIRMAN—Can you answer that, Mr. Hurley?

The SECRETARY—I am not quite prepared with an answer at the moment, but I think about half the shareholders in the Victoria Laundry are shareholders in the Hongkong Laundry Co.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—The reason I ask the question is that it seems to be a question amongst ourselves. If there is any money left what is going to be done with it? Is it going to be chucked away for the benefit of the lawyers?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Gentlemen, Mr. McCulloch has asked what I consider a very sensible question and one I dealt with at our last meeting. I have also pointed out in conversation with the directors of the old Company the folly of the legal proceedings which have been instituted. It is simply wasting money, and I cannot help saying, now I am on my legs, the only chance of success this Company ever had has been completely spoiled by the obstruction we have met from the old company, and which I think we ought never to have met. It was all on the simple matter of this extra machinery. Whether it would have had the beneficial effect claimed for it is more than I can say, but I may say this, as a matter of right, as it was in our agreement, we ought to have had that machinery to give it a trial. On Thursday next this arbitration award will be brought, as Mr. Legge says, before the Judge in Chambers. If the award is not made void this company is virtually finished. If we win, as I trust and believe we shall, the case will have to come on in court, probably at considerable expense, an expense certainly to one side or the other.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—It is the same thing whichever wins.

Mr. LEGGE—Not quite.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—If we go to court we are sure to win, if we only get $10. There is no doubt about a breach of contract having been committed; it is not denied; and whether we get $10 or $500 we will get costs.

Mr. CRAWFORD—Taxed costs.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—But this is more to the point. After going into this matter very carefully I consider it would be an act of folly to continue the laundry any longer. It would be a waste of money. I certainly for one will not co-operate on the management for carrying on the laundry under present circumstances. I have gone into the figures as far as they have been supplied to me, and it is utterly impossible for the laundry as constituted to pay. I don't feel inclined, having been placed in trust for other people, to go on losing $300 or $400 a month, out of philanthropy, which is simply sentiment. Therefore I propose we suspend work until this case against the other company is finished, and then we can decide. I would say, finish what little work we have in hand and shut up the shop. We have no servants that we are tied to. I think the washermen are employed by the day, so we can send them away at once; and Mr. Hurley has a three months' notice, which he has very generously waived in case of the company being suspended. That is a proposal I feel conscientiously bound to make, gentlemen, as with our present machinery we are simply going on to lose from $300 to $600 a month, and you cannot help it. The most rigid economy has been applied, and loss has followed loss. Whether that new machinery would have made the difference it has been said it would I am not a sufficient expert to say, but I don't feel justified in allowing the Company to get further into debt without telling you plainly the state of affairs.

Mr. DEAR asked if the rent would be the only expense the Company would have if work was suspended.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH replied that that would be so, and the loss would then be limited to $200 a month.

Mr. LEGGE—As a shareholder in both the companies and a director of the old one I quite agree with Mr. Smith that it is time to close, but I think in justice to your customers you must give them, at the risk of a little more loss to this company and the old one, a little notice of when the concern will be closed. It is very well for you to talk about losing $200 instead of $500 by not working, but seeing you have not paid one penny of rent, or one penny for the stores you have used, I fail to see how you are losing $200 or saving it. It is not necessary to enter into the questions before the arbitrators. The questions—four—were drafted by your own Secretary and our Secretary. To meet your views we agreed to withdraw legal proceedings and submit the matter to arbitration. After proceedings under oath lasting from seven to eight hours, and hearing the evidence of our joint secretary, Mr. Johnston and myself, the arbitrators decided in our favour, allowing $380 to the Victoria Laundry Company for an avoidable detention of machinery. I myself pointed out there was an avoidable delay of six weeks.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We have not seen any award, decidedly nothing in your favour.

Mr. LEGGE—It is your lawyers' fault then. It was sent to your lawyers. The award was the total value of stores consumed with 7 per cent. interest from a certain date until to-day and $200 a month rent from the date of agreement.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—These were never disputed.

Mr. LEGGE—Then we will leave the arbitration altogether.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Precisely.

Mr. LEGGE—Well, you brought it up, so I had to reply.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Then state facts.

Mr. LEGGE—I am stating facts.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We admit the indebtedness, but plead a set-off.

Mr. LEGGE—Are you aware you signed an agreement in which a clause occurred that both parties were bound by the arbitration?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Of course.

Mr. LEGGE—You are equally aware another clause stated it would be in the power of either party to make the award a rule of court should we think right.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—That is according to the Ordinance.

Mr. LEGGE—I don't know anything about the Ordinance.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Oh, yes, that is according to the Ordinance.

Mr. LEGGE—Well, I won't tell you what we are going to do. I would only ask one question. Have you any funds?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We have a little.

Mr. LEGGE—Enough to go on with for a month?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I should say not, and that is the reason I am desirous of having the place closed.

Mr. GEORG—Do you mean to say all the money has been lost without paying any rent?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—The amount lost is $4,307.

Mr. GEORG—Is that dead loss on working without rent?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—It is dead loss on working including $200 a month rent.

Mr. GEORG—Where is that money?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—What money?

Mr. GEORG—The $200 a month rent. Is it in the bank, or has it been expended in some other way?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—It has been expended in some other way.

Mr. GEORG—What other way?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We paid $2,500 for a launch.

Mr. CRAWFORD—That is an asset.

Mr. LEGGE—Does the launch, which represents one of your principal assets, belong to the Victoria Laundry?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Certainly.

Mr. LEGGE—Without any claim upon it?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Yes; and there is another important asset; there are a large number of outstanding debts amounting to $2,650.

Mr. GEORG—That, together with the value of the launch, makes $5,000.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Yes; but on the other hand we have outstanding bills.

Mr. CRAWFORD—I don't quite understand how you answered Mr. Georg's question. You say you have lost $4,000 including $200 a month rent, and you have not paid the rent.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We have not paid it.

Mr. CRAWFORD—Mr. Georg's question is a very natural one. Where is the difference, the $1,800?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I am quoting from the company's accounts and these have been made up monthly, and the rent has been included as a matter of course.

Mr. CRAWFORD—Is there any account of the position of the company to be presented to us now to show how we stand?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I take it we are simply bankrupt.

Mr. LEGGE—Would a cheque for $500 be paid to-day?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Certainly not.

Mr. CRAWFORD said he had seen no accounts until he came into the room a few minutes ago, when some papers were put into his hand, from which he had been able to gather an idea of the position, but he thought there ought to be a proper statement.

Mr. GEORG asked what amount of capital had been subscribed, and was informed that the shares had not all been fully paid up; 250 shares were fully paid up, making $2,500, and on 175 shares $5 had been paid, making $875, or a total of $3,375.

Mr. GEORG—Mr. Smith says $4,000 have been lost on working, which would actually mean a debit balance.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Of course, but you are forgetting the $1,800 we have not paid, which is included in that $4,000. Will you second my proposal to suspend work on the 31st October, Mr. Legge?

Mr. LEGGE—I would put one more question, before I do so. Whose money do you wish us to spend in the attempt to break the arbitration?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Our own money.

Mr. LEGGE—Is there any?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Oh, there is enough to pay for that.

Mr. LEGGE—You have just answered me that a cheque for $500 would not be honoured.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—It will not cost $100.

Mr. LEGGE—I don't know that.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I am telling you.

Mr. LEGGE—I object, as shareholder of the Victoria Loundry Company, to the money of the shareholders being spent in that way. I propose that no further money be spent in an attempt to get over the arbitration agreed to by both companies.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—You cannot propose that while there is another proposition before the meeting. I propose that we suspend operations on the 31st October.

Mr. GEORG—That will be the finishing of the company at all events, because when the customers go away they will not come back.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Practically it will be the finishing of the company, but we cannot formally wind up now.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—I beg to second Mr. Smith's proposal, and I hope the directors will call a meeting as soon as possible for the winding up.

Mr. CRAWFORD—I protest against that until we have been shown our position. You say, and have right to say that it is a losing concern, but I object to such a resolution being put until a statement of accounts has been put before us. As Mr. Georg very wisely said, the suspension of the company means its closing.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Practically it does, there is no doubt about it.

Mr. CRAWFORD—I don't suppose what I said will be seconded, but I protest against things being done without knowledge before us. If you directors say you are satisfied with that resolution I suppose it will be carried, but I protest against that resolution.

The SECRETARY said he was authorised to mention Mr. MacEwen's name. Mr. MacEwen's opinion was that a committee should be appointed by both companies to investigate the whole matter.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I don't see what better we should be for that.

The motion that operations be suspended on the 31st October was then put and carried nem con.

Mr. LEGGE—I beg now to renew my proposition that no money belonging to the Victoria Laundry Company be expended in any legal attempt to break down the arbitration which was mutually agreed upon by both companies.

Mr. CRAWFORD—The other proposition being carried I second Mr. Legge's proposition.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—Perhaps you would not mind doing it in this way—"That no money be spent, etc., without the sanction of the shareholders."

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Your proposition is of no use, because we have already paid the lawyers.

Mr. LEGGE—I am quite aware of that. I have the information in my pocket. You were not going to tell the shareholders that fact. You have already briefed Mr. Francis.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I said we had retained counsel.

Mr. CRAWFORD—You said you had taken the advice of counsel.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—It is only fighting our own shareholders and giving counsel so many dollars.

Mr. CRAWFORD—That may account for some of the expenditure of money.

The SECRETARY—In the event of that motion being carried I beg to propose a committee be formed composed of shareholders in both companies to investigate the whole affair. Such a proposition as Mr. Legge's cannot possibly be carried here. I know the feeling of many shareholders outside and they are very indignant indeed. I hold proxies for 140 shares and I am authorised to see this thing right through. They have seen from the papers the exact position of affairs and the manner in which we were treated, and they don't like the idea of giving it up in that way.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH asked Mr. Legge if he wanted his proposition put.

Mr. LEGGE—Yes.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—It is tantamount to a vote of censure on the directors.

Mr. LEGGE—I am quite content to add that to it.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—You know the position. There is a dispute on the arbitration. Without imputing anything to the arbitrators I may say they made a great mistake as to what they were asked to do. We have already retained Mr. Francis. The case has already been called in Chambers, and our opponents were put out of court with costs to start with, and it will come on on Thursday finally. We have arranged that. If you pass the resolution you cannot prevent us going that far. I am not so fond of spending money—and in this case it is partly my own and partly other people's—in feeing lawyers that I would do so if I did not think it necessary.

The motion that the Victoria Laundry Company spend no more money in legal expenses in attempting to set aside the arbitration without the sanction of the shareholders was then put and carried, seven voting for it and three against.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I call for a poll. I have proxies for 150 shares.

Mr. LEGGE—Don't spring any more mines, Mr. Smith.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—That is not springing a mine. I claim a poll.

Mr. LEGGE—Oh! Then I will spring a mine on you about half-an-hour hence.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—It is our own money; what are you going to do with it?

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—We have already taken certain steps, and those steps we are going to stand by.

Mr. CRAWFORD—That money is already expended. This resolution is only against expending any more money. As I have said, you have given us no accounts. If you give us accounts and show that by spending $500 we will get it back again we may authorise you to spend it.

Mr. MCCULLOCH said Mr. Fraser-Smith proposed to use his proxies to oppose the shareholders who had come to the meeting.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—If Mr. MCCULLOCH or any one else can show us a sensible course to take in this matter we will be happy to take it. Our interests are yours.

Mr. GEORG—The most sensible course would be not to spend any more money.

Mr. CRAWFORD—That is what it comes to.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—It comes to more. We have already gone so far we are bound to go on.

Mr. CRAWFORD—That means spending more money.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—No.

Mr. CRAWFORD—Then there is no objection to it.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—I should say there is very serious objection. If the award is given in our favour, and in the event of the Hongkong Laundry Company putting the thing in court, what would follow then?

Mr. GEORG—You might call another meeting of the shareholders.

Mr. FRASER-SMITH—Certainly we should.

Mr. GEORG—Well, that is what the resolution says.

Mr. MCCULLOCH—I think you will find also that the shareholders of the other company will pass a similar resol

TREATY REVISION IN JAPAN.

The following article appeared in the leading columns of The Times on August 28th:—

A correspondent at Tokyo, to whom we have been indebted in past times for various interesting letters on the treaty question in Japan, this morning relates the course which the very important deliberations of the interested Powers have lately taken in the matter, and the conclusions to which their representatives have arrived. The Conference which has been sitting in Japan was adjourned till October 5th, to give time to the various representatives to receive instructions from their Governments; but it is believed in Japan that the difficulties in the way of a revision of the treaties have been practically removed. It will be remembered, by those who read the letters and articles which we published in August and in March last, that the Japanese have long entertained the very reasonable desire to free themselves from the treaties which have bound them ever since the Revolution. Those treaties, which drew a hard-and-fast line between certain ports and the rest of Japan, and which established consular jurisdiction for the trial of all cases against foreigners, were all very well a quarter of a century ago when Japan was only just emerging from barbarous isolation, but they are felt to be both inconvenient and humiliating now. They have been a bar put in the way of the development of Japan. They have crippled its trade and have offended its dignity. Japan is a country which has advanced in the path of civilization at an unprecedented rate, and the treaties have been found to be as much out of place as would be a set of rules that would keep a very clever boy in the lowest class at school because he happened to be younger than his companions. What Japan has long desired almost all the seventeen interested Powers have been willing to grant, with the important exception of England. Moved chiefly by the resistance of the English merchants at the privileged ports and cities, successive English Governments declined to abandon the treaties; and then, when English policy changed, the course of proceedings adopted was so cumbrous that many persons urged Her Majesty's Government to withdraw altogether from the treaties, leaving other nations to follow or not, as they might choose. Fortunately, this invidious course has been rendered unnecessary. The Conference appears to have paved the way; and the harmonious co-operation of the English and German Ministers has done the rest. That matters are yet settled it would be rash to say, but it is, at all events, plain that the high Japanese authorities believe them to be so. The Mikado, at all events, has invited Sir Francis Plunkett, our Minister, to an audience, has addressed him in the very satisfactory words which our correspondent quotes, and has ended with an announcement that will cause widespread curiosity and interest throughout this country. He has announced his intention of sending the Prince of Wales the Imperial Order of the Chrysanthemum. This poetically-named decoration is the highest that the ruler of Japan can bestow; and it is worn by none but a few Royal personages and Prince Bismarck. No doubt, the mark of the Mikado's friendship will be as welcome to the Court as to the people of Great Britain.

The settlement of the thorny question of the treaties—if we are to assume that it is a settlement—is the work of our Minister, Sir Francis Plunkett, and of the recently appointed representative of Germany, Baron von Holleben. The latter came out with liberal instructions, and has throughout shown himself as anxious to work well with the British Representative as could be desired. The result has been the preparation of a plan closely resembling the rejected Japanese plan of 1882. After a certain number of years the jurisdiction clauses of the treaties are to be allowed to lapse, but up to that time new courts are to be established for the trial of foreigners in serious cases. These are to be under the Japanese authorities, and the Judges are to be appointed by them; but half the Judges are for the present to be foreign. Except for this distinction, the position of foreigners all over Japan is to be assimilated to that of natives in all matters affecting civil status—that is to say, they can hold land and houses, can reside, and trade as freely as the subjects of the Mikado. But at the treaty settlements, nothing is for the present to be altered. Those Europeans and Americans who choose to reside there and to do their business on the old lines will be at liberty to do so; and for them the present consular jurisdiction will be kept up. This "dual status," however, is only to last three years. After that foreigners and Japanese subjects will be equal in all respects, except that the special courts will continue to work for twelve years more. In return for the large advantages thus conferred on foreigners, the Japanese Government asks to be allowed to reform its tariff; and the request is not unnatural, since the expense of the new arrangements, of the appointment of 25 foreign Judges, and of the training of many subordinate officials will be considerable. There is a difference of opinion as to the time when the new tariff is to come into operation. The Japanese want to begin at once; England answers that the tariff and the new jurisdiction should begin simultaneously—that is, at the beginning of 1889. The Japanese plea is that her expenses incurred under the treaties have been so great that she should not be forced any longer to hold her hand in fiscal matters. "Interminable negotiations," says our correspondent "complicated by the terrible difficulty of reconciling the conflicting interests of a host of treaty Powers, have barred her title so effectually that, after spending millions of dollars upon an extensive system of lighthouses, light-ships, buoys, and beacons, she has not been allowed to levy a cent in the shape of tonnage dues upon foreign vessels entering her ports." There seems to be a good prima facie case for the immediate grant of permission to revise the tariff. The Japanese Minister in London will doubtless do his best to establish his country's claim to the satisfaction of Lord Iddesleigh.

Our correspondent speaks emphatically of the good that has been already done to the position of England in the affections of Japan by the course which the negotiations have taken. We have recovered, it would seem, all the influence that we possessed in old times, before we began to pose as the sole and immovable opponent of treaty reform. The Japanese, naturally inclined to be friendly with us, have eagerly taken advantage of our concessions, and are now in a fair way to follow the lead of England in all the important matters in which our common Oriental interests may involve the two nations. But, of course, it must not be all at once assumed that the amended regulations that we have described are certain to be ratified. England, Germany, and the United States, the three nations most largely interested in the trade of Japan, are fully agreed; and it appears probable that Austria, Italy, and many of the smaller Powers will follow in their train. But there may be difficulties with one or two other Powers, notably with Russia and France. Political considerations will guide their action; and just now it is eminently uncertain which way those considerations will lead. Will Russia, adopting the same position of antagonism to England in Japan that she has adopted in Afghanistan and elsewhere, refuse to abandon the old treaties? Will France, irritated by the rapprochement of England and Germany and anxious to conciliate Russian favour, act in the same way? It is impossible to say; but, if these nations do adopt such a course, it will be necessary to proceed without their co-operation. The probability is that Japan would proceed to make treaties with the larger group, and would leave with the two malcontents the responsibility of taking advantage, under the favoured-nation clause, of Japan's concessions without giving in exchange the equivalent to which their fifteen associates had agreed. It can hardly be supposed, however, that two self-respecting nations would consent to incur the odium of such a course; and if they do not, there seems to be nothing to prevent Japan's finally emerging, a little more than two years hence, from the restraints imposed by those who have kept her so long in statu pupillari.

POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ———, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

LOCAL DELIVERY.—No delivery is attempted on board Ship at the Peak, Kowloon, Aberdeen, &c., nor at any private house (even though named in the address) when there is a place of business nearer, at which delivery can be effected.

☞ The authorised List of Mails issued in connection with this paper is the one published twice each day in our Extra, which is always corrected to a much later hour than that given below.
